EDITOR'S CORNER

Dear subscribers and other readers of Viva Voce,

There is yet another innovation in the newsletter – a magazine format in which you will see a two-page spread with more viewing options, depending on what your computer affords. We would very much like your feedback! I am still imagining a new feature:

Letters to the Editor YOUR INPUT HERE

Let us know your ideas about what you would like to see, and what you don't care for. As we expand our offerings we can always use new, well-written content, so if you have a pet subject you would like to share in print, let us know that, too. Our new pagination, which may require fillers, has inspired me to finally produce a quiz feature, so imagine

Top Quiz Marks YOUR NAME COULD BE HERE

We have received no feedback on the Quiz. Too easy? Too long? Too hard? Just not interested? I know knowledgeable fans are out there!

News From Your Opera Guild

Coming Next Month: A feature with Curt Long, President and CEO of the Rochester Philharmonic. Former Behind the Scenes articles are available on the website and through a Face Book link.

We think that subscribers may have had trouble opening last month's issue, so we are repeating some articles. Hope you enjoy them, if you haven't already!

I note with regret the closing of the Lyric Theater, promising project of Susan and Anthony Cotroneo, which will revert to being a church. Victim of the pandemic, the theater had not yet attained its goal of being refitted as a full-fledged theater and opera venue. Nevertheless, classical music and opera fans were periodically able to enjoy concerts, scenes and recitals there.

We are looking forward to our Annual Recital for Donors (see article in this issue), and hope to have a special viewing for those donors who cannot access a computer.

I again wish to thank my husband, Bill Crocca, for his diligence in bringing our new newsletter format to fruition. Many thanks again also to Mary Bonaccio, Chair of the Communications Committee, who allows us to function in the twenty-first century and who has borne the burden of our increased virtual presence.

Rochester's new Opera Collective

ROCopera is the brainchild of three professional opera singers: Elisabeth Halliday-Quan, Heather Holmquest and Kerri Lynn Slominski (Our own 'Three Sopranos'?). It was created to broaden opera's reach in the Rochester area by reimagining and reinterpreting existing classical vocal music through a contemporary lens. It also promotes new works for the classical voice; and seeks to bring opera out of the concert hall and into everyday spaces (although right now, that would be the internet).

The principles have assembled a growing team of local professional opera singers and instrumentalists into a regional opera collective, both a producing organization and a mechanism for promoting and supporting the work of local artists. When they launched their Face Book page, the response was great and the women were very thankful for free social media to get them started!

The company made its public debut at the 2020 KeyBank Rochester Fringe Festival with their virtual audience-interactive engagement Total Request Live: OPERA EDITION! In October, they performed at the ImageOut Transgender Day of Remembrance. ROCopera recently wrapped up their virtual Song Cycle Festival for which performers produced their own interpretations of composers works through audio/video digital presentation.

Kerri Lynn Slominski relates, "My colleagues and I were originally developing as a chapter of OOT (Opera On Tap*) for Rochester. In light of recent events, we have elected to go in a more independent direction in order to create effective socially-distanced performance opportunities as well as anticipated future stage performances.

Kerri Lynn is a local Rochesterian from a musical family who performed at one of the first Bravo Nights. She and Elizabeth Halliday-Quan both attended Peabody Conservatory, where they met. Elizabeth, like many singers, has a dual presence, here and in New York City, where she works with companies to commission and premier new repertoire, and is a co-founder and artist of the ensemble Rhymes With Opera. Heather Holmquist, an early music specialist, wears hats as soprano choral scholar at Third Presbyterian Church, teacher of music theory at Nazareth College, and private piano and voice teacher. She received both master's and doctoral degrees in Musical Arts from Oregon University.

If you haven't already encountered the talented members of this group, watch for ROCopera's virtual Bravo Night, scheduled for June.

*Opera On Tap is a national and international network which produces, as its name suggests, opera in community venues such as bars. Its programs promote young singers, local composers and new music.

Divinely Inspired: The Masses of Franz Peter Schubert A Virtual Singing Opportunity

Learn and sing along at home with the Rochester Oratorio Society!

Register Now

The prolific Austrian composer, Franz Peter Schubert (1797-1828), wrote six Latin Masses and one German Mass, among numerous sacred choral works. These are some of the most admired of all choral music for their sublime beauty, directness of expression, innovative harmony and structure and progressive orchestration. From relatively simple, functional works of modest duration, the works grow longer and more complex through his output, while remaining always beautifully gratifying to sing and to hear. By the end of the series, with Mass No. 6, the musical sophistication is of the highest order, requiring a secure technique and a good understanding of choral ensemble.

Of course, the Metropolitan Opera has many resources for both adults and students. If you haven't explored them already, go to the main menu at metopera.org and click on 'discover.' This leads to another menu of all kinds of educational features from podcasts and articles to more formal educational materials for students.

From Chatauqua Opera, at chg.org/opera-video-index, you will find a listing of all the features that were part of the 9-week summer video opera events, which are archived on the website's Virtual Front Porch platform. These include conversations with artists, vocal events, master classes, the Opera Song Cycle, new compositions, and more.

San Francisco Opera has a great education site for youngsters with materials that can be used in the home as well as by educators. sfopera.com/discover-opera/education

Los Angeles Opera has programs for both adults and children at laopera.org/community

Utah Opera at <https://utahopera.org/education/students/> also has good student materials.

From Arizona Opera, at <https://azopera.org/education-community/opera-home-virtual-learning-tools>, videos for middle school and older students with introductions to four operas. Although produced for Arizona Opera presentations, they are suitable as general references.

COCOA AND CAROLS: How did they do it?

Reprinted with permission of Tri-Cities Opera, John Rozzini, General Director

Please consider supporting Tri-Cities Opera: click here for the Website.

While TCO was unable to produce live & in-person events this fall, we wanted to share something special with all of you for the holidays. The artists pictured above helped the company produce its first online alumni event ever, Cocoa & Carols.

While each artist was offered a stipend for participation, they had to record themselves using whatever technology they had... largely their phones. They recorded their lines in separate takes and recorded their singing while wearing headphones and singing along to a track provided by TCO. They then sent their individual audio and video clips to TCO's Assistant Conductor John Cockerill who worked it all into the magic sauce seen and heard during the concert. BRAVI TUTTI!

As we plan for the return on Cocoa & Carols in December of 2021, TCO hopes to be able to raise some money to purchase microphones & ring lights to lend to singers as professional "in-home studio" production resources. We think this will help us raise the bar for another cozy, festive, and fun holiday event.

Annual Recital for Donors

Our Annual Recital for Donors will be a premiere Zoom virtual presentation in June, limited to donors, and featuring Lauren Silberstein, who performed at a wintry Bravo Night before the pandemic, when she immediately came to our attention as a future Recitalist. Donors will receive a special invitation and information on the link to connect them to the recital.

Praised for being “winsome and fiery” on stage with a “powerful, deliriously gorgeous voice, (Nippertown Magazine)” Lauren Nash Silberstein, soprano, was most recently seen as a Young Artist with The Ohio Light Opera in 2019 and 2020 as Julie Jordan in Carousel, Lavinia in Perchance to Dream, Cinderella’s Mother in Into the Woods, and Leontine (cover) in The Devil’s Rider. Lauren is a recent graduate of The Eastman School of Music with a Master’s Degree in Vocal Performance and Literature.

In Fall 2019, she portrayed Little Red in “Little Red’s Most Unusual Day” with Rochester Fringe Festival. Performances with Eastman include the academic premiere as Soprano 1 in Ricky Ian Gordon’s The Tibetan Book of the Dead and Franca Naccarelli in The Light in the Piazza. Both of these roles were coached with the composers themselves. She portrayed the Dew Fairy in Tri-Cities Opera’s production of Hansel and Gretel. With Tri-Cities Opera Lauren has also been seen as a member of the ensemble of Sweeney Todd and La Traviata. She portrayed Yum-Yum in Binghamton University’s production of The Mikado. With Opera Saratoga, Lauren has been seen as second spirit in Die Zauberflöte and ensemble for The Mighty Casey and HMS Pinafore. Awards include prizes from The Harold Haugh Light Opera Vocal Competition in 2020, The Mendelssohn Club (Albany) Joel Dolven Scholarship Award in the Intermediate Division (2018) and First Place of the National Association of Teachers of Singing Eastern Region Conference in 2017 and 2014. She has been the soprano soloist with orchestra for Handel’s Messiah, Mendelssohn’s Elijah, and both Fauré and Rutter Requiems. She holds both a Bachelor of Music in Vocal Performance and Bachelor of Science in Business Management concentrating in Marketing from undergraduate studies at Binghamton University. During coronavirus quarantine months, with the troupe Where the Good Songs Go Lauren made the first-ever recordings (virtually) of four forgotten early musicals. Lauren cannot wait to return to the stage in person!

Bravo Nights

Bravo Nights are performances at The Little Café of opera and musical theater selections by talented local singers in an informal setting. They are appreciated by both seasoned opera fans and newcomers who wish to learn about the art form.

In normal times, Bravo Nights take place at The Little Café, which is located in the Little Theatre at 240 East Avenue, performances are 7-9 pm, and refreshments may be purchased there.

Watch here for our next scheduled Bravo Night, featuring ROCopera, sometime in June.

Chautauqua to Return to Its Tent Roots in 2021

CHAUTAUQUA OPERA COMPANY

Opera, theater open to all to be presented in an outdoor venue on Pratt Avenue.

Following analysis of the potential use of Norton Hall as the primary venue for Chautauqua Theater Company and Chautauqua Opera Company performances in 2021, Institution officials have opted instead to construct a temporary performance pavilion on Pratt Avenue for the presentation of performances with lawn seating open to all gate pass holders. The plan includes the presentation of approximately 40 theater, opera and selected other programs over the nine-week Summer Assembly. In addition to lawn space open for self-seating and requiring no additional ticket, a limited number of reserved seats under the cover of the pavilion will be sold for each performance at $25 per person. Recognizing the Pratt Avenue location is normally used informally and in limited ways during a typical Summer Assembly, programs at the pavilion will be scheduled to take place during the day and early evening hours only, and all public events will occur on a pre-published schedule. L'Orfeo

by Claudio Monteverdi

August 19, 20 and 22, 2021

Pre-concert talks 1 hour before each performance

Hart Theater at the Louis S. Wolk Jewish Community Center

1200 Edgewood Avenue, Rochester

This ground-breaking opera, written in 1607 and considered the first "real" opera, still has the power to captivate audiences over 400 years later, with its universal story, virtuosic expressive music, and colorful orchestration. Its themes of love and loss, human weakness and strength, redemption and the power of music, remain relevant today and will resonate profoundly with our audiences.

As Orfeo, famous for his musical prowess, joyfully celebrates his marriage to Euridice, a messenger brings the news that she has died. Orfeo travels the treacherous path to the Underworld to win her back-with his seductively entrancing music -only to lose her again because of his own doubt. Eventually escorted by the god Apollo, he ascends to the heavens where he can be reunited in the stars with his Euridice. A cast of shepherds, nymphs, spirits, and gods support the flow of the drama with dance, heartfelt solos, and dynamic choruses, that comment on and interpret the action.

We are thrilled to present tenor Colin Balzer in the virtuosic and dramatically expressive role of Orfeo, the singer who must travel to Hell and back to regain his beloved Euridice.

Bass René Pape, the world's reigning Boris, reprises his overwhelming portrayal of the tortured tsar caught between grasping ambition and crippling paranoia. Conductor Sebastian Weigle leads Mussorgsky's masterwork, a pillar of the Russian repertoire, in its original 1869 version, which runs two-and-a-quarter hours with no intermission. Stephen Wadsworth's affecting production poignantly captures the hope and suffering of the Russian people as well as the tsar himself.

The ancient Greek myth of Orpheus, who attempts to harness the power of music to rescue his beloved Eurydice from the underworld, has inspired composers since opera's earliest days. Rising American composer Matthew Aucoin now carries that tradition into the 21st century with a captivating new take on the story—a product of the Met's commissioning program. The opera reimagines the familiar tale from Eurydice's point of view. Yannick Nézet-Séguin is on the podium; there is a new staging by Mary Zimmerman. Soprano Erin Morley sings the title role, opposite baritone Joshua Hopkins as Orpheus and countertenor Jakub Józef Orliński as his otherworldly alter-ego. Bass-baritone Nathan Berg is Eurydice's father and fellow resident of the underworld, with tenor Barry Banks as Hades himself.

Chuck Lundeen, 1943-2019, Teacher & Philanthropist

By Carol Crocca

Chuck Lundeen died at the beginning of the pandemic and those of us who knew him were denied the opportunity to formally grieve and acknowledge his contributions to the musical life of Rochester. We remember him as a warm and knowledgeable friend and patron of the arts. Chuck had long had health challenges although they rarely prevented “the bravest person I know” (John Williams) from active and joyful participation in his interests.

Chuck was born in northern Minnesota, the first of three children. According to John, his husband, he was the first up in his household and spent this morning time with a large book of stories and pictures of opera. His mother was a singer, a participant in the noted St. Olaf Choir, and also a music teacher, and Chuck himself always sang in school and church choirs. All kinds of music were part of his life, from classical to Elvis Presley, facilitated by the gift in his youth of a record player. He really developed his interest in opera because of a high school teacher who regularly took students to the Twin Cities to attend the touring Metropolitan Opera productions.

Chuck attended the University of Minnesota at Duluth, where he studied English and French, partly satisfying his interest in music by doing tech for college musical theater productions. He spent his career at the Canandaigua Junior Academy teaching middle schoolers English and occasionally French. In Rochester, he was a strong supporter and member of the Gay Men’s Chorus; it was there that he met John, his future partner of 32 years, who was a lawyer and editor at the then Lawyers Cooperative Publishing Company. During their time together, he and John traveled to many cities to enjoy opera –

San Francisco, Miami, Toronto, Sarasota, and of course, the NYC Met. In summer, they were regulars at the Glimmerglass Festival in Cooperstown and Chuck also traveled on his own (his last trip was to the Met Ring Cycle in 2019), always bringing back stories of these sojourns to his friends and students.

Most importantly for the music community, Chuck was a teacher and philanthropist. For many years, he taught a course at Oasis (a continuing education organization for older adults) based on the Met Opera’s simulcasts in local theaters on Saturday afternoons. His class was always full, as Chuck’s enthusiasm and relaxed style appealed to aficionados and novice opera fans alike. His friend Deena

Ambush describes it thus: “Chuck was a master teacher, who not only shared his love of opera with the class, but built a community of knowledgeable opera lovers.” Chuck was almost always at the Saturday Met operas and could be counted on to enliven the experience with his commentary.

As for philanthropy, it would be difficult to list all the ways Chuck and John have manifested their generosity. They have been contributors, board members, and/or fundraisers for the Rochester Gay Men’s Chorus, Friends of Eastman Opera, and Nazareth Arts Center, among others. In 2017 they were honored by the Rochester Area Community Foundation for their community philanthropy. Chuck and John also established the Williams-Lundeen LGBTQ Scholarship at Nazareth College and recently John created the John C. Williams Scholarship in memory of Chuck Lundeen, to be awarded annually to an Eastman School of Music voice student.
